OBSTETRICS AND GYNECOLOGY

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology provides a full range of health care services in inpatient and outpatient settings to meet women's needs throughout the span of their lives, from general wellness and preventive screening to the most sophisticated specialty care. Interests of the department include: care of pregnant women with pre-existing conditions which threaten the well-being of the mother or fetus; high-risk pregnancies; treatment of malignancies in the female reproductive system; treatment of infertility and endocrinological disorders; treatment of urogynecologic disorders; minimally invasive surgical options and treatment of a range of difficult gynecologic problems.

The UNC Department of Obstetrics & Gynecology is committed to Caring for Women, For Life!

Division of Advanced Laparoscopy and Pelvic Pain

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The Division of Advanced Laparoscopy and Pelvic Pain performs gynecologic surgeries for benign disease (non-cancerous), with advanced expertise in operative laparoscopy, including robotic assisted gynecologic laparoscopy. We are regionally and nationally recognized as authorities in the evaluation and management of pelvic pain problems, and in laparoscopic surgery. Typical patients are those with chronic pelvic pain, endometriosis, fibroids, and other general gynecologic problems.

Division of Gynecologic Oncology

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The Division of Gynecologic Oncology provides the most up to date services in the evaluation and treatment of malignant neoplasms of the female genital tract. All diagnostic techniques are available including colposcopy, LEEP, cystoscopy, colonoscopy, ultrasound, FNA, etc. Treatment modalities include ultra-radical, radical and routine surgery, chemotherapy, laser therapy, and use of radioactive isotopes. We have a cutting edge program in minimally invasive surgery to include advanced laparoscopy and robotic radical surgery. A cooperative program on experimental drug therapy is also available to patients.

Appointments are available both at North Carolina Women's Hospital and at UNC Women's Specialty Center at Rex Healthcare.

Division of Midwifery

BRIEF DESCRIPTION

The Division of Midwifery serves women throughout their lives from teen to mature women. We provide a wide range of services including first gynecological exams, obstetrical care, labor and delivery, contraception, perimenopause and women's preventative health care. We place importance on teaching and counseling and working together with women and their families in designing the best birth plan for pregnant women and the best health care plan for all women.

UNC midwives place importance on prenatal teaching and counseling. Midwives work together with the birthing woman and her family in the delivery of the baby at UNC Women's Hospital. Midwives also work with the attending obstetricians if their patients require physician consultation. Along with ordering medication and epidurals for their patients, Certified Nurse-Midwives utilize their expertise in alternative and complimentary therapies, such as aroma-therapy and massage. Certified Nurse-Midwives are the experts in normal pregnancy care.

Appointments are available both at North Carolina Women's Hospital and at UNC OB-GYN at Timberlyne.
